What you would most like to gain from being involved in the Oriented to Love dialogue?

If you are applying for the People of Color-only dialogue, please share why you are interested in that dialogue specifically.

Please list any involvement(s) you may have in your spiritual community and/or church:

Please list any involvement(s) you may have in any other community groups or activities:

Have you ever participated in support groups, listening circles, or anything that requires you to listen open-heartedly to someone with different views from yours? Explain.

Describe who Jesus Christ is to you.

If you are a sexual/gender minority: What kind of support do you have from other LGBTQIA people?

If you are NOT a sexual/gender minority: Do you have any close friends or family members who are LGBTQIA? If so, how would you describe your relationship with them?

If you are selected for the dialogue, are you able to respect the privacy of others and agree to keep confidential everything shared within the group?

If you are selected for the dialogue, are you willing to commit to a handful of pre-dialogue preparation exercises and to hand them in by the requested deadlines?
(These include submitting a bio, some dialogue questions, and a very brief reflection on your own hopes and fears; it is generally no more work than it takes to complete this application, and 5-7 days are given to complete each assignment.)

What, in your view, is the role of sexuality in the life of a Christian?

What do you believe are the most important elements of a Christ-centered marriage?

How do you view non-heterosexuality?

Place an X on the continuum below at the point that best expresses your understanding of how God views sexual relationships. (Please understand that we are limited by space and language and cannot express here the incredible complexity that real life implies! This is just to get a general gauge of where people are coming from theologically.):

I believe that God views same-sex sexual relationships as morally and spiritually equivalent to male-female sexual relationships.

I believe that celibacy and marriage between a man and a woman are the only godly paths God provides for our sexuality.

What, in your view, is the role of gender in the life of a Christian?

If you are cisgender (you identify with the gender written on your birth certificate): How do you view people who ...

... transition to a different gender (transgender)?

...are intersex ("a general term used for a variety of conditions in which a person is born with a reproductive or sexual anatomy that doesn't seem to fit the typical definitions of female or male")?

...do not identify strongly with one gender or another (gender queer/nonbinary)?

Which best describes your church or spiritual community?

LGBTQ people are not welcome to attend.

LGBTQ people are welcomed but not offered leadership roles unless celibate or in an opposite-sex marriage.

LGBTQ people are welcomed into all aspects of church life (both lay and leadership roles) regardless of their relationship status. Same-sex weddings are performed and blessed by the pastoral team, and same-sex unions are affirmed in the same way and to the same extent that opposite-sex relationships are.

In what way(s) do you feel that God is calling you specifically to this dialogue?

What do you consider your personal gifts or strengths, especially as it pertains to this dialogue? What can you see yourself bringing to it?

What do you consider your personal challenges, especially as it pertains to this dialogue? What do you anticipate might be particularly difficult for you in the context of the dialogue? (This is an opportunity to practice the kind of vulnerability that will serve you and others well at the dialogue, so we encourage you to resist the temptation to dismiss or downplay this—it's an important aspect of the process.)

What part has suffering played in your faith journey? (In what ways has suffering entered into your life? How have you processed that suffering? What has God done with your suffering?) Specific examples are helpful here.

Please list below any special needs you have pertaining to accessibility, dietary restrictions, etc., that will help us better host you:

References: These should be people who can vouch for your genuine desire to dialogue (listen to others and share yourself), your ability to keep confidentiality, and your faith in Christ. They should be people that you are comfortable with knowing about this dialogue.
